

ANTEL Expands and Protects Consumer Email Service with Critical Path's Messaging and Anti-Abuse Solutions

Memova solutions provide ANTEL with secure email service for 100,000 additional subscribers in Uruguay

Madrid, Spain – September 15, 2009 – Critical Path, Inc., a leading provider of messaging software and services, today announced that ANTEL, Uruguay's national telecommunications provider, is expanding its deployment of Critical Path's Memova® platform to provide email services to 100,000 new subscribers in addition to ANTEL's existing 350,000 subscribers. ANTEL is also deploying Critical Path's Anti-Abuse solution to protect its subscribers against email viruses and spam.

ANTEL email services have been powered by Critical Path's Messaging platform since 2004 and they continue to enjoy high subscriber satisfaction due to the reliable, user-friendly experience it provides. To meet ANTEL's increasing subscriber demand in Uruguay, they have committed to expand the Messaging platform as well as deploy Critical Path's Anti-Abuse solution for enhanced email security.

"Critical Path is pleased to help ANTEL provide first-class service to its subscribers, while cost-effectively expanding its messaging infrastructure and protecting subscribers against viruses and spam," said Jesus Calderon, Country Manager, Critical Path. "We have expanded our presence in Latin America where we are growing through success with operators like ANTEL and by forging strong local partnerships. We look forward to continuing our long-term relationship with ANTEL and are happy to offer our ongoing service and support as they expand their business."
