Happy Anniversary Libero!

Critical Path™ and WIND celebrate a successful partnership

As WIND celebrates the tenth anniversary of its Libero portal, the on-going collaboration between the two companies confirms the leadership of Critical Path's messaging solutions

TURIN, Italy – 1 September, 2009 – Critical Path, Inc., a leading provider of messaging software and services, today announced its 10-year partnership with WIND, Italy's foremost operator of integrated fixed-mobile-Internet communications services. This coincides with WIND's 10th anniversary as well as the anniversary of its Libero portal.

On July 13, 1999, Libero.it was launched as the first Internet portal and free e-mail service in Italy, which has made network and Internet services part of daily life for Italians. During this 10-year period, Critical Path has been a key partner for WIND – delivering innovative offerings that enrich the Libero experience – as well as anti-abuse solutions that ensure high levels of control for managing security and protecting Libero customers against viruses and spam.

Libero.it, the leading Italian provider for email services, boasts the largest Internet community in Italy with over 10 million unique visitors per month. It offers a wide range of services and content, including search, news, sports, finance, entertainment, blogs, video sharing, online dating, shopping and specialty channels.

Over the past 10 years, Libero email services have continuously evolved with leading edge features. Today, Libero uses Critical Path's Messaging platform, part of the Memova® suite of applications and services, to deliver rich webmail services such as real-time updates, message preview, customized layouts, right-click menus and more. In addition, the webmail service is the base for developing and supporting new Internet services and applications such as Jumbo Mail which has played an important role in meeting the demand for sharing large files, presentations, and personal content easily, quickly and securely.

Over the years, these new and innovative features have powered Libero's community, delivering an exceptional, personalized end-user experience available anytime and anywhere. By choosing Critical Path's push email solution, WIND enables customers to have simple and immediate access to their email while on the move.

Furthermore, with Critical Path's Anti-Abuse solution, WIND is able to respond promptly to network threats, protecting its Libero customers while ensuring a rich Internet experience.

"The anniversary of Libero also coincides with the tenth anniversary of WIND. Our customers always expect the best in terms of both functionality and technology from our portal," says Antonio Converti, Business Unit Portal and VAS Director of WIND. "Over the past 10 years, we have constantly been committed to providing email services that meet the high expectations of our subscribers. Critical Path has enabled us to meet these demands."

"We congratulate WIND on its 10th anniversary milestone and wish them continued success in the years to come. We are very happy to be a key partner for WIND. This confirms our leading presence in the market of messaging solutions," says Renato Miletto, VP, Critical Path. "Ten years together, 10 years of growth, 10 years of common success in a competitive world, represents a significant achievement that further motivates us to continue pursuing the spirit of partnership that characterizes our work. Thanks to our technological innovation resulting from continuous research and development by Critical Path and its Innovation Center based in Turin, Italy, we are able to offer the highest performance and continuously improve the user experience for our customers."
